Over $2 Million Collected for State Coffers from Internet Tax Warrants

The Indiana Department of Revenue reports that over $2,000,000 has now been collected with the State's highly successful INdebt program that went live on the Internet July 1, 2004.

The $2,000,000 mark was reached this week. In addition, another $900,000 in payment plans have been arranged.

Only taxpayers owing at least $1,000 in back state taxes for over two years with outstanding tax warrants are added to the INdebt list in accordance with Indiana Public Law 1365-2004.

New postings since July 1, 2004, to the INdebt list have included 192 new names of individuals and businesses.

Statistics showed the INdebt web site had over 1,000,000 hits and over 150,000 searches in the first several weeks of its operation. The site may be accessed from www.INdebt.IN.gov or from the Department's home page at www.IN.gov/dor.

Indiana's INdebt database is searchable by individual name, business name or by county name (also by Warrant Number or Liability Number). Database information may be browsed or downloaded by anyone with access to the Internet.

Information regarding the program, such as why an individual or company might be on the listing and how to get off the INdebt list is also available at the Department's web site, www.IN.gov/dor.
